2010 Clinic Schedule Announced

Dun Rite Stock and Stables - Bentley Alberta

Doug and Katie Roxburgh host several clinics each year at their farm north of Bentley Alberta in addition to the invitations they receive to instruct and speak at various clinics and workshops. Doug and Katie use the knowledge they have garnered from their purebred cattle and horse breeding operation plus the combined 25 years of 4-H experience to educate and help cattleman and horseman of all ages to reach their full potential.

The annual livestock judging clinic will be hosted at the farm on February 27th. On the agenda for the day is discussion and practice in preparing and presenting both oral and written reasons. Live animal classes including cattle and horses. Additional judging classes will include; cattle EPD's, meat evaluation, sheep, hogs, forage and grains. Participants are exposed to classes they are not usually comfortable with judging. Each class is evaluated by the participant and then official placings and reasons are presented that is followed by a question and discussion period. Parents and siblings are always welcome to attend. The cost is $25.00 per participant and $5.00 for parents and siblings. Included in the cost is a judging manual with additional information as well as lunch, coffee, juice and snacks. The registration deadline is February 19th 2010.

September 25th 2010 will be the annual junior cattleman demonstration. This is a free event held in conjunction with Dun Rite Stock and Stables annual steer and heifer sale. The clinic topic and more information will be announced closer to the date.

Additional clinics that Doug and Katie Roxburgh will be instructing include; Cattle Fitting and Clipping in Oyen Alberta and Hunter under Saddle in Buck Lake Alberta.
